Welcome to the 2013-14 academic year! Here at IPC, the semester has had a busy start in terms of all things international.

Last spring, UNCG selected “Global Engagement” as its Quality Enhancement Plan (QEP) topic as part of the university’s accreditation reaffirmation process. In choosing this plan, UNCG has further affirmed its commitment to strengthening internationalization on our campus. By including global engagement as a part of every student’s learning experience here at UNCG, we will prepare our graduates to enter into the global environment in which we live. We are currently hard at work on the plan’s development, and we look forward to its implementation next academic year.

Meanwhile, IPC will be continuing its efforts to conduct stimulating activities to engage our students, faculty, and staff in international initiatives. We have seen continued growth in our study abroad program—this summer and last academic year, UNCG sent 458 students abroad to 26 countries throughout the world. As for our international population, we have approximately 300 new international students joining us this semester; approximately half of them are exchange students from our partner institutions. Over the summer, UNCG also hosted 20 undergraduates from the Shanghai University of Sport as well as 25 German Fulbright Students.

The Chancellor opened her speech by talking about her involvement with international affairs, both in her personal and professional life, over the past 35 years. She also talked about UNCG’s commitment to international education as being an essential part of the university’s identity, making special mention of UNCG’s recent selection of “Global Engagement” as the theme for the Quality Enhancement Plan (QEP), part of the university’s accreditation reaffirmation process.

Chancellor Brady also gave a special welcome to the 25 visiting Fulbright students from Germany, who spent the month of August at UNCG. She highlighted the various experiences they had, including participating in an entrepreneurship course, visiting local businesses, and taking a behind-the-scenes look at Disney World. She also gave special recognition to the six new international degree-seeking student athletes and one exchange student athlete who have come to our campus. These athletes are from Australia, Bermuda, France, Germany,
New Zealand, and the Netherlands, and they play a variety of sports including baseball, basketball, and soccer. As with past receptions, several students were recognized to show the diverse backgrounds and interests of our international student body. This year, special recognition was given to Sophie Baghouil (Belgium), Ngoc Thi My Ta (Vietnam), Rudolph Bedeley (Ghana), and Onelda Shaqiri (Albania). In addition to meeting Chancellor Brady, they were each presented with a welcome gift.

Sophie Baghouil is one of our new undergraduate exchange students. She is the first exchange student from the Louvain School of Management at the Catholic University of Louvain in Belgium to study here at UNCG. For the fall semester, she will be continuing her studies in business and is also looking forward to learning more about American culture, meeting new people, traveling in the US, and improving her English.

Originally from Ben Tre, Vietnam, Ngoc Thi My Ta is one of our new international degree-seeking undergraduates. She studied at the Saigon Technical University in Ho Chi Minh City, Vietnam before transferring to INTERLINK at UNCG. She will be majoring in Accounting.

Rudolph Bedeley, who represented our new degree-seeking graduate and PhD students, will be pursuing a PhD in Information Systems through the Bryan School of Business and Economics. Four years ago, after completing his BS in Engineering in Ghana, he was awarded a research scholarship by the University of Delaware (UD) to pursue an MS in Civil Engineering, then went on to earn a second Master's degree in Information Systems and Technology Management at the same university. While at UD, he was honored with the departmental award for being the best Graduate Assistant for the 2011-12 academic year.

Onelda Shaqiri represented the INTERLINK students. She completed a BFA in Piano in Albania before enrolling in INTERLINK. Scheduled to graduate from INTERLINK in December, she plans to enter the Masters of Music program at UNCG in January. She will be concentrating on Music Theory.

Overall, the reception was very well attended by all, including Provost David Perrin, faculty members, IPC staff, friends, and students. We would like to thank everyone for coming, and we wish all of the international students a warm welcome and best wishes for the upcoming semester. UNCG and IPC are proud to be a part of each student's journey!

Faculty Features

Dr. Nancy Walker pursues partnership with the Robert Schumann Hochschule

By Dr. Nancy Walker

On May 28, 2013, I arrived in Düsseldorf, Germany to begin cultivating a possible connection between the UNCG School of Music, Theatre and Dance and the Robert Schumann Hochschule (RSH). An internationally renowned music school, the RSH offers four programs of study that cover a wide variety of musical professions, including Music, Music Promotion, Audio and Video (Engineering), and Music and Media.

During my visit, I met with Michaela Krämer, a Professor of Voice at RSH, and Miriam Ellmann-Orlinski, Head of the International Office at RSH, to discuss this potential partnership. They were very interested in both student and faculty exchanges, and we discussed logistics regarding acceptance of students, language requirements, German language learning possibilities, student and faculty housing. possibilities, and the semester calendar. We took a tour of the RSH facilities, including the performance halls, practice rooms, teaching studios, and student cafeteria. In hopes of solidifying our partnership, I invited them to visit UNCG in the future.

I also observed several classes at RSH while in Düsseldorf. First, at the suggestion of Ms. Ellmann-Orlinski, I attended a music theory class taught specifically for graduate voice majors by Hans Peter Reutter (Professor, Music Theory). It was an excellent class, and I believe our own students would benefit from a similar course. I also observed Ms. Krämer giving voice lessons and attended a violin class taught by Ida Bieler (Professor, Violin/Chamber Music). Ms. Bieler’s students performed in one of the recital halls at the RSH, a beautiful and acoustically fine performance space, and the level of violin playing was excellent. I also spoke with Ms. Bieler about her work on a project for teaching violin to underprivileged students in Düsseldorf.

I am excited that we have begun building a connection with RSH. I am very appreciative of the support for my trip from the Kohler Fund, and I would be glad to talk further about this partnership possibility with anyone who is interested.

Faculty funding for international activities

A portion of the Kohler Fund, established in 1991 with a bequest from the estate of Phyllis Penn Kohler, class of 1930, is dedicated to supporting faculty internationalization efforts in six areas (research, teaching, internationalizing the curriculum, student programs, special projects and institutional linkages). Faculty are encouraged to submit proposals by the deadline that falls approximately six weeks before the proposed event or travel. To facilitate faculty submissions, the Committee has four deadlines per year for all six areas. The deadlines for the 2013-2014 academic year are as follows: September 20, October 25, January 17, and March 21. Details about the procedure for applying and the forms needed can be found on the IPC website at http://www.uncg.edu/ipg/fundingopportunities.html. To see others who have received a Kohler award in the 2012-13 fiscal year, please click here. We look forward to receiving and reviewing next year’s proposals.

Visitors & Scholars

Carla Fitz: First Fulbright Foreign Language Teaching Assistant from the University of Innsbruck, Austria

As part of the university’s commitment to international education, UNCG and IPC host several visiting scholars each academic year. These scholars help bring diverse perspectives to our academic community while making positive contributions to the university. One of the scholars visiting our campus for the 2013-14 academic year is Carla Fitz, who is our first Fulbright Foreign Language Teaching Assistant (FLTA) from Austria.

Originally from Dornbirn, Austria, Carla comes to us from the University of Innsbruck in Innsbruck, Austria, where she is earning a Master’s degree in teaching. Specifically, her focus is teaching English as a second language to German-speaking middle and high school students. She applied for the Fulbright FLTA program because she

During her time here, Carla will be working as a teaching assistant for the German Studies program in the Department of Languages, Literatures, and Cultures. Dr. Susanne Rinner, Associate Professor and Director of Undergraduate Studies in German, was instrumental in bringing Carla to our campus. Dr. Rinner originally pursued adding an FLTA to the German Studies faculty in order to give students an opportunity to engage with native German speakers and help enrich their intercultural understanding.

Carla is teaching two classes this semester, an introductory level course in German and a German conversation course. So far, the classes have been very exciting for her, as they are the first she has taught on her own. "It is very exciting to finally get to teach," she says, "and this has been an especially interesting challenge because I’m teaching my native language, German, through English, which is my second language."

In addition to teaching classes, Carla is also auditing two courses, Young Adult Literature (English) and North Carolina History. She is especially excited about the former, since she has long loved YA Fiction. When asked what her favorite YA novel is, she said Harry Potter. "It was the first English book I ever read. It took longer for the series to be translated into German, and I wanted to read them right away, so I made myself learn the language." She is also very interested in how YA novels can been used as a teaching tool in middle and high school classrooms to encourage students to read.

Representatives from City University of Hong Kong visit UNCG to discuss possible exchange partnership

Last month, UNCG and IPC welcomed visitors from the College of Business at the City University of Hong Kong (CityU) in Kowloon, Hong Kong, to explore the potential development of a new student exchange agreement between our universities. An Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB) accredited school, the CityU College of Business was represented by Dr. Mary Pang, Associate Dean (Internalization), and Ms. Kang Yee Lee, Executive Officer (External Liaison), who visited our campus on August 16. During their visit, Dr. Pang and Ms. Lee met with Dr. Penelope Pynes (IPC Associate Provost) as well as members of the Study Abroad and Exchange staff. Logan Stanfield (Study Abroad Coordinator) also led them on a tour of UNCG’s campus.

In addition to meeting with IPC staff members, Dr. Pang and Ms. Lee also met with several faculty and staff members from the Bryan School of Business and Economics, including Amanda Pelon (International Programs Advisor and Lecturer, Bryan School Undergraduate Student Services), Dr. Jerrie Hseih (Associate Professor, Department of Marketing, Entrepreneurship, Hospitality, and Tourism), Dr. Ambrose Jones (Associate Professor, Department of Accounting and Finance), Dr. Stuart Allen (Professor, Department of Economics), Dr. Vasyl Taras (Assistant Professor, Department of Management), and Dr. McRae Banks (Dean, Bryan School).

UNCG’s Kinesiology Department hosts students from the Shanghai University of Sport

The Kinesiology Department at UNCG welcomed a group of 20 undergraduate students from the Shanghai University of Sport (SUS) to our campus this summer. The students, led by Dr. Xiaobo Che, a professor in the College of Physical Education at SUS, were in Greensboro for three weeks, from July 1 to July 21, 2013. The group was one of three groups from SUS visiting universities in the US this summer.

The program was designed as a cross-cultural immersion project between UNCG and SUS. Plans for the program were first set in motion when Provost David Perrin visited SUS in November 2012 to discuss expanding collaborative efforts between our two universities. During the Spring 2013 semester, Dr. Penelope Pynes (IPC Associate Provost), Denise Bellamy (Director of Study Abroad and Exchange Programs), Dr. Sandy Shultz (Professor, Kinesiology Department), and Dr. Ang Chen (Professor, Kinesiology Department) met to finalize the decision. A SUS alumni, Dr. Chen was the program’s primary organizer and overseer, programming the courses and itinerary, recruiting instructors and staff, making living and meal arrangements, making transportation arrangements, organizing a pre-trip orientation in Shanghai, and overseeing the SUS students’ activities during their visit. We would like to thank him and everyone who contributed for all their hard work in ensuring the program was a success!

During their visit to our campus, the SUS students learned about American sports, American sporting culture, and American culture in general. In addition to attending summer courses in the Kinesiology Department, they also learned how to play American sports such as lacrosse, golf, and football. They were also invited to attend and participate in several fun events and trips, including an Independence Day parade in downtown Greensboro, shopping trips to Charlotte, NC, a hiking day-trip at Hanging Rock State Park in Stokes County, NC, and tubing the Dan River in Rockingham County, NC.

After leaving our campus on July 21, the SUS students visited Washington, DC, from July 22-28 before returning to Shanghai.

This is the first time the Kinesiology Department has hosted students from SUS. In the future, the department is looking forward to growing the program and eventually hopes to send UNCG students to SUS as well.
ISA Myrtle Beach Trip Fall 2013

By Junyi Hu, UNCG International Graduate Student

The UNCG international student group spent the Labor Day holiday weekend at Myrtle Beach, South Carolina, an annual trip supported and organized by the IPC and International Students Association (ISA). During each Fall semester, IPC and ISA organizes three cultural trips to Myrtle Beach, Washington, DC, and New York City. On the morning of August 31, we departed from the Phillip-Hawkins Residence Hall for Dayton House Resort in Myrtle Beach. The hotel was right on the beach, so we could feel the wind from the sea while relaxing on our balconies. As soon as we arrived, all of us immediately changed in to our swimsuits and ran to ocean. We swam, surfed, sunbathed, took photos, and played Frisbee, volleyball, and soccer on the beach. All of us enjoyed the wonderful weather and beautiful sights.

That night, we went to Broadway at the Beach, which is one of the biggest travel destinations for shopping, dining, and entertainment at Myrtle Beach. During our visit, we attended the Labor Day fireworks show, one of the largest fireworks shows of the year. We were delighted and amazed as we watched the light of the fireworks cover the night sky.

Though most of our trip was spent relaxing on the beach, we also visited several shopping centers, local stores, and local restaurants over the course of the trip. Some of the students dined at seafood buffets and enjoyed fresh, local cuisine.

We left Myrtle Beach and headed back to UNCG on September 2. We all had a great time, and returned home with many good memories to share. We'll report back soon on our next trip to Washington, DC!

For more information on any or all of these programs, please do not hesitate to contact us at ipc@uncg.edu

Fall 2013 International Student Orientation

UNCG and IPC are delighted to welcome 130 new international exchange students and 121 degree-seeking students to our campus. During the week of August 12, 2013, the exchange students participated in a week full of orientation activities, including presentations on academic advising, academic and non-academic life, and visa document information. Additional presentations were provided by Housing and Residence Life, UNCG Police, Spartan Card Center and Dining Services, Student Success Center, and the Student Health Center. Throughout the week, the students were also taken on several off-campus outings, including trips to the Wal-Mart Super Center, the Friendly Center, and the Four Seasons Mall. As always, we truly appreciate the time taken to help our new students adjust and orient themselves to life at UNCG and the greater Greensboro area.

In addition to learning the nuts and bolts of campus life, students also participated in several activities to help them get to know their cohort and their UNCG PALs. Over the summer, UNCG Team QUEST Director Paul Harmelin taught the Study Abroad and Exchange (SAE) staff several experimental education activities designed to encourage a deeper level of interaction and bonding between students. During the orientation week, the SAE staff and a few graduate assistants led several of those activities in Foust.
INTERLINK/New Mind

Summer 2013 Session

On May 27, 2013, INTERLINK welcomed 25 new students for the start of its 9-week summer session. Representing 11 different countries, new students participated in 2 days of orientation activities on campus before joining the 80 returning students on May 29 for the first day of classes. To celebrate the beginning of the term, all INTERLINK students were invited to a welcome reception in Foust Park.

On June 24, nineteen INTERLINK students were recognized at a special honors ceremony for having earned all A’s in their classes during the previous nine-week session (Spring 2). These students were congratulated by Dr. Brad Teague, INTERLINK’s director, and presented with a certificate.

The end-of-term ceremony for the summer session took place on July 26 in the Jackson Library Auditorium. Twenty students graduated from INTERLINK at the conclusion of the summer session, including fifteen students who have enrolled as degree-seeking students at UNCG this fall. Several awards were also given during the ceremony, including the “Outstanding Student” Award, “Perfect-Attendance” Awards, “Hardest-Working Student” Awards, and “Module Participation” Awards. We are very proud of our graduates and look forward to hearing about their continued successes!

Fall 2013 Session

INTERLINK’s Fall 1, 2013 session began on August 12, 2013. We welcomed 46 new students (a record number!) from 9 different countries, and these students participated in 2 days of orientation activities on campus before beginning classes along with approximately 65 returning students on August 14. Many INTERLINK students celebrated the new term by attending the Chancellor’s International Welcome Reception, held on August 20 in the Elliott University Center’s Cone Ballroom.

INTERLINK Welcomes New Staff

INTERLINK has welcomed four new members to its staff since May. Stephanie Odom is the new Administrative Assistant, and Jenny Chalikian is the new Program Assistant. Stephanie grew up in Greensboro as a softball player and an active member of the JR ROTC team, and she brings an extensive customer-service and accounting background to the program. Jenny graduated from Guilford College with a BA in German and a minor in Religious Studies. During her time at Guilford, she studied abroad in Munich, Germany where she developed a love for languages and travel.

Giovanna Alessio and Eddie McGee also joined the INTERLINK team as instructors. A California native, Giovanna has taught both English and German in Mexico and California. Since 1988, Eddie has taught English in Germany, Northern Virginia, China, Azerbaijan, Kentucky, and Ohio. In the summer of 2013, he returned to his home state of North Carolina to teach at INTERLINK.

Interested in volunteering for INTERLINK? Now that the fall semester is underway, INTERLINK is looking for conversation partners, tutors, and other volunteers. Working with international students in our program is a great way to learn more about another culture, form international friendships, and help INTERLINK students with their English. If you are interested in getting involved with our program, please contact us at interlink@uncg.edu or (336) 334-4700. Our office is located in 025 Foust. You can also check out INTERLINK’s Facebook page.

New Mind Education: New Mind joins Pamela Harrod on recruitment trip to China

The summer of 2013 proved to be both an exciting and productive time for New Mind Education. From late June through mid-July, New Mind was delighted to sponsor and join Pamela Harrod, Director of International Admissions at IPC, on a recruitment trip to China. Accompanied by Lauren Hudson, Program Director at New Mind, Pam travelled throughout many cities in China, including Tianjin, Hohhot, Zhengzhou, Chengdu, Nanjing, Hangzhou, and Guangzhou, to meet with many prospective students interested in studying in the US. One of the first students recruited was Dan Wu, who has been conditionally admitted to UNCG and will begin studying at INTERLINK Language Center this October. She is very excited to be joining the UNCG community!

In Tianjin, Pam and New Mind Education representatives had the opportunity to meet with the Dean and other faculty members of the Law Department at Nankai University, one of the most prestigious universities in northern China, to discuss a potential collaboration between our two universities. The meeting was a promising step forward in continuing to grow the international population on UNCG’s campus.

Overall, the trip was a huge success, and we are pleased to welcome 12 new students to the UNCG community. This is our largest cohort at UNCG yet, and we are looking forward to our program seeing further growth in the future.

UNCG hosts UNCEP Summer Colloquium

On July 18, 2013, UNCG hosted the 2013 University of North Carolina Exchange Programs (UNCEP) Summer Colloquium. As with past colloquia, the goal was to bring together study abroad campus coordinators from throughout the UNC system to share ideas, experiences, and expertise with each other and with UNCEP as it reviews processes and incorporates new ideas into its efforts to provide affordable, high-quality study abroad and exchange programs to students in the UNC system and its partner-institutions around the world.

In addition to the 18 campus coordinators who attended, 3 senior international campus officials were also present: Bonnie Parker (Director of Study Abroad/Study Away Office, UNC-Asheville), Olivia Jones (Assistant Director of International Affairs, NC Central University), and Dr. Penelope Pynes (Associate Provost for International Programs, UNCG).

Clayton Harrington, International Student Exchange Programs (ISEP) Director of Membership and US Member Relations, traveled from Washington, DC, to attend the colloquium. He presented updates on ISEP programs and practices. The day also included a virtual presentation from Australia. Kate Smart, (Manager of Study Abroad and Exchange Programs at the University of Sydney and New South Wales/Australian Capital Territory [NSW/ACT] consortium coordinator) and Dr. Lyn Lawrance (Coordinator of Study Abroad and Loan Scheme, University of Technology Sydney; Former UNCG Associate Provost of International Programs) answered questions and encouraged all of the UNC campuses to send students to institutions in NSW/ACT.

IPC Staff: Welcomes and Farewells

Farewell, Natalie O’Connor
IPC bids a fond farewell to Natalie O’Connor, who was our Front Desk Supervisor for the Spring 2013 semester. We wish her the best in her future endeavors!

Welcome Back, Muhuba Mohamed!
Muhuba Mohamed is our new Front Desk Supervisor. Originally from Somalia, Muhuba graduated from UNCG in May 2013 with a BS in Business Administration. She first joined the IPC team in September 2010 as a Front Desk Coordinator. Her favorite part about being an IPC employee is having the opportunity to meet and work with so many different people. “I’ve loved discovering how diverse our campus is,” she says. She is excited to return to our team, and we are so glad to have her!

Welcome to our new Graduate Assistants

An international student from Cote d’Ivoire, Aymone Kouame is our new GA for International Admissions. She has been in the US since July 2010. After obtaining an MS in Management at Minot State University in North Dakota, she came to UNCG in January 2013 to earn an MS in Accounting.

“As an international student, I have learned that studying abroad is one of the most enriching experiences one can hope for,” she says. “Joining the IPC gives me a great opportunity to assist students with the concerns and questions they may have. I know from experience that relevant information topped by a friendly face and a patient ear can make a huge difference!”

Shiuh-min Chiang is our new GA for International Student and Scholar Services. Originally from Taiwan, Shiuh-min has been living in Greensboro for three years. He first came to UNCG as an INTERLINK student and is now a second-year graduate student majoring in Accounting. “During my experience in both INTERLINK and in graduate school, I’ve visited the IPC many times for help and support. I understand the challenges that international students might face in their academic life, and I am glad to be involved with helping them.”

Welcome to our new Front Desk Coordinators

A junior, Alyssa Blair is majoring in Kinesiology with a concentration in Sports Medicine. She plans to study abroad in Seoul, South Korea, during the 2014 Spring semester. Originally from Pakistan, Zona Faraz moved to the US when she was fourteen. She is currently a junior, majoring in Business Administration with a concentration in Human Resources. Danielle Fiore is a senior majoring in
Welcome to our New Interns

Alaine Jacobs is one of our new IPC interns for the fall. She is a graduate student, pursuing a M.Ed in Student Personnel Administration in Higher Education. "I am excited about working at IPC because I have a passion for traveling and learning about new cultures, and I can't wait to share this with others," she says. "I am looking forward to working with international students and encouraging others to study abroad."

Simone Capatti, who was our Front Desk Supervisor for the summer, will also be interning with us for the fall. Originally from Italy, he moved to Greensboro in January 2013 to earn a degree in International and Global Studies and Communications, which he earned at IULM University in Milan. "The IPC was my first point of contact when I applied to UNCG," he says, "and I decided to start volunteering at the office to learn more about the fascinating world of international higher education."

Welcome to our New UNCEP Office Assistants

Our new Front Desk Coordinator for UNCEP is Tracey McGill, a junior majoring in Asian Studies. "I wanted to work at UNCEP because I’m very interested in doing a study abroad program, and I wanted to learn more about what it’s all about," she says.

New German Fulbright Summer Institute Student Ambassador

Dagmar Irrig is a senior majoring in Economics and German. This summer, she worked as a Student Ambassador for the German Fulbright Summer Institute, an opportunity she learned about while studying abroad in Germany. "My role was centered around showing the students American culture, which is what so many Germans did for me while I was abroad," she says. "It was an interesting role reversal, and the experience has given me a new perspective on my own culture and country."

New Global Leadership Program Coordinator

Starting this semester, Katie Pegram, the current editor of the eNewsworthy, will also be the new coordinator of the Global Leadership Program. Katie is a third year graduate student, working on an MA in English with a concentration on Editing and Publishing.
